SAN CARLOS, CA, May 5, 2016 - This Saturday, May 7th, the City of San Carlos will be hosting the 5th Annual Volunteer Expo at the newly remodeled Adult Community Center (601 Chestnut) from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The 2016 Volunteer Expo is free and open to all ages.

More than 25 local nonprofit organizations will converge on the Community Center to help residents learn more about local volunteer opportunities. Representatives will be on hand to answer questions about their organizations, giving attendees the chance to find volunteer opportunities that match their skills and interests. Students, youth groups, community groups and church groups are all encouraged to attend, as well as any individuals looking for opportunities to donate their time and talents.

"In San Carlos, our community is defined by a spirit of volunteerism, embodied by our many local service organizations," said Mayor Cameron Johnson. "I encourage all San Carlos residents to find a way to give back to their community and our Volunteer Expo will provide many great options to get involved."

There are ways for everyone to give back to the San Carlos community. Stop by the Expo this Saturday to find the one that's right for you. For more information, please contact Brian Cary, Social Media and Volunteer Coordinator, at bcary@cityofsancarlos.org or call (650) 802-4218.
